Dear Participant, Thank you for taking the time to participate in this survey! This research is part of the Customer Analytics course under the Master of Business Analytics program at the University of Technology Sydney (UTS). The study is supervised by Dr. Sonika Singh (Subject Coordinator & Lecturer). If you wish to verify this research, you may contact Dr. Sonika Singh at sonika.singh@uts.edu.au or reach out to the student researcher at Niveditha.Kannan@student.uts.edu.au.

Why Your Opinion Matters:

Despite the growing demand for plant-based, cruelty-free, and inclusive food choices, McDonald's Australia currently does not offer any vegetarian or vegan burger options. Unlike its international counterparts, which have embraced plant-based alternatives, McDonald's Australia lacks inclusivity for consumers seeking ethical and sustainable fast-food choices.

This survey aims to understand customer preferences and demand for vegan and vegetarian burger options at McDonald's Australia. Your feedback will help shape insights into consumer expectations and drive awareness toward more diverse and ethical menu choices. Whether you're a dedicated plant-based eater or just looking for healthier alternatives, your insights are valuable!

Survey Details:

The survey will take approximately 10 minutes to complete. All responses will remain anonymous and will be used exclusively for academic purposes. The survey is open to all individuals interested in plant-based food options, regardless of dietary habits.
